BOYS

No. 6

WELCOME to this, the second volume of BOYS. We are so grateful for the public's kind reception of our first issue that we are encouraged to offer a second edition. Here we present the youth of today in a way that we hope will inspire other young men to attain strong, healthy bodies. We include articles on health and exercise also with this thought in mind. The connoisseur of fine physique photography need look no further for examples of true artistic worth, for they represent the efforts of some of the greatest photographic talent in the world today. Here then, dear reader, we offer for your approval the latest in our efforts to bring to you a true representation through the art of the camera of that unlimited source of joyful energy known as the BOY.

WHY BODY-BUILDING IS GOOD FOR YOU

YOUR BODY is the "house" in which you live while here on earth. Your common sense will tell you that it must be kept in good condition. After you have done that, you will be prepared for a future life that will bring rewards of constant good health with plenty of pep and energy. You will also be ready to go ahead to further triumphs in your career, whatever it may be. It is a verified truth that a man who is in good physical condition has a much better chance of getting a good job. Whether is is manual labor, a construction engineer in Argentina, or just an office job in your home town, an applicant for a position or job who shows and radiates good health will always get the preference. Of course, how you think and your formal education are also important. But if you are not physically fit, you will not be able to utilize your educational knowledge as well. If your employer sees that you are healthy, he will feel that you will be more dependable and have to miss less time for possible sickness. Then, of course, it is always a fact that a man in good health will always look better no matter what his stature or physiognomy may seem.

Your physical fitness is also important in social relationships. The man who is healthily exhuberant spreads good fellowship. While he has developed his body, he has also developed his mind. He has the wisdom to know that they work together in making the sum total of the man he is. In his relations with the opposite sex he has an advantage, too. Wholesome women are interested in wholesome men. They look for a mate who has character and ideals. His personality attracts them. They are also basically concerned with a man who is, intellectually and physically, competent to become the father of their children. A mother will naturally love her children, whether they be weak or strong. If they begin life in the best of health, she will have much to be thankful for.

If you are physically fit, you have a larger appreciation of life. You are more sensitive to its needs and desires. Your imagination readily responds to its many fascinations and possibilities. You appraise the man you see and then judge him for what he is. Even though he may have an infirmity, you can credit him with the care he has taken of the body he possesses. With a good program of physical training you can become strong because you have willed it so. That same power within you makes you a better man in every other aspect of life. You find added strength also in the infinite world of the spirit. You give of yourself to your family, your town, your country, and to God. All this you can do and is possible because, when you were young you took good care of your body with systematic training. Now you are ready for the rewards that come from a healthy, happy life on earth.

BOB HALE

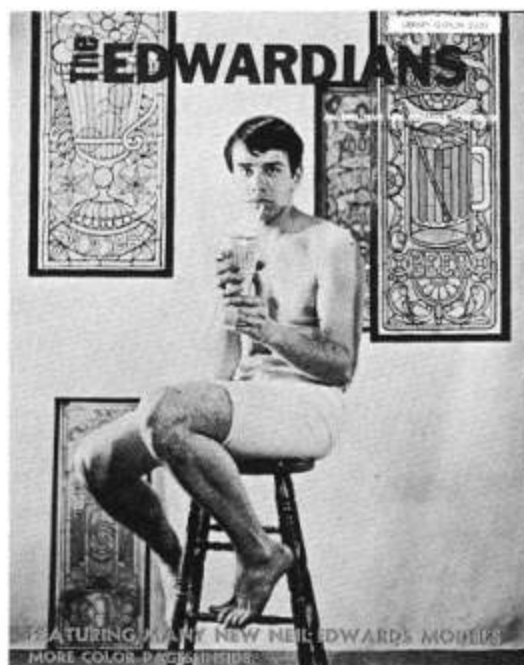

CHAMPION spotted its terrific new model, BOB HALE, at an intermural gymnastic tournament. Even from a distance Bob stood out among his team-mates. As he raised himself with slow and steady grace in a perfect handstand on the rings, the spotlight played all over his exceptional physique: his thickly-knotted shoulders, his well-defined biceps and forearms, the classic chest, the cleanly cut serratus muscles, and the powerfully molded buttock and thigh development. An artist's ideal, and a real winner! Later, in the locker room, we got a close-up look at all of Bob's good points. His square featured attractive face set off by close-cropped dark unruly hair and his carefree boyish manner marked him as a natural for physique and fashion modeling.
